Global economy, growth stable despite a highly uncertain environment

Global economic growth 2023-2024 (%)

Source: IMF, January 2024

- ① Global economic growth is likely to stabilise at +3.1% in 2024 and in line with the trend seen in 2023, underpinned by a resilient US economy and the dynamism of major emerging economies, particularly India, which is likely to register GDP growth of +6.5% in 2023 versus +6.7% the previous year.
- ① The Euro Area is expected to see growth pick up from +0.5% in 2023 to +0.9% in 2024 and to +1.7% in 2025. China's struggling real estate market together with falling domestic and external demand are proving to be a brake on the economy with the latter forecast to grow by +4.6% in 2024 and +4.1% in 2025 versus +5.2% in 2023.
- ① Headline inflation is expected to retreat to +5.8% in 2024 compared to +6.8% the previous year, with the result that major central banks are maintaining a hawkish monetary stance ahead of a sustained fall in prices.

SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA, ECONOMIC PROSPECTS IMPROVE

Sub-Saharan Africa – towards a gradual economic recovery

Real GDP growth in sub-Saharan Africa (%)

Source: IMF, January 2024

- ① After two consecutive years of economic slowdown, growth in sub-Saharan Africa is set to pick up to +3.8% in 2024 versus +3.3% in 2023, before accelerating to +4.1% in 2025, with several countries within the region returning to international capital markets.
- ① Growth is likely to be underpinned by improved economic prospects for the continent's main economies, Nigeria and South Africa, a solid performance by non-resource-intensive countries and the easing of inflationary pressures (+13.1% in 2024 vs. +15.8% in 2023).
- ① Public finances across the region are gradually recovering although public debt levels remain higher than before the pandemic, exacerbated by the rise in interest rates and currency devaluations.

West Africa – economic prospects still positive, underpinned by a regional appeasement strategy

Real GDP growth in ECOWAS (%)

Source: IMF, 2024

- ① GDP growth in ECOWAS is likely to accelerate to +4.1% in 2024 versus +3.3% in 2023 despite inflationary pressures persisting within the sub-region (+17.2% in 2024). This is primarily due to macroeconomic policy reforms and an anticipated increase in oil and gas production in certain countries within the sub-region.
- ① The decision taken by West African heads of state to lift most of the sanctions imposed on Niger, Guinea and Mali is likely to further bolster prospects by helping to restore trade links and financial transactions within the economic bloc.
- ① In Senegal, despite election-related unrest, economic growth is projected to be +8.3% in 2024 versus +4.1% in 2023. In Côte d'Ivoire, GDP is set to grow by +6.5% versus +6.4%, while Ghana's economy, benefiting from existing measures to bring public finances back on track, is likely to register growth of +2.8% versus +2.3%.

East Africa – the continent’s best performer

Real GDP growth in the East African Community (%)

- ① East African Community (EAC) member countries are expected to register the continent’s best performance in 2024 with economic growth estimated at +5.7%. This is primarily due to an easing in commodity prices, a dynamic services sector and large-scale infrastructure projects.
- ① These projections conceal disparities within this regional bloc, however. Kenya, which recently issued a fresh USD 1.5 billion Eurobond to finance the redemption of its USD 2 billion bond, is likely to see growth stabilise at +5% in 2024 versus +5.1% in 2023.
- ① Ethiopia is expected to register GDP growth of +6.2% in 2024 versus +6.1% in 2022 thanks to the performance of its agricultural sector, while Rwanda is set to deliver the highest rate of growth within the region at an expected +6.6% in 2024 versus +6.2% in 2023.

Central Africa – growth projections moderate, impacted by Equatorial Guinea’s underperformance

Real GDP growth in Central Africa (%)

2021 2022e 2023p

Source: IMF, 2024

- After slowing to +2.7% in 2023 (versus +3.3% in 2022), economic growth in the CEMAC economic bloc is expected to register a modest recovery in 2024 to +2.9%. Regional economic growth is likely to be tempered by economic recession in Equatorial Guinea (-5.5% in 2024) due to a decline in oil production.
- Economic prospects vary from one country to another, however. Republic of Congo’s economy is set to grow by +4.4% in 2024 versus +4% in 2023, boosted primarily by increased oil production.
- At the same time, real GDP growth in the DRC is likely to slow to +4.8% versus +6.2% in 2023 with mining production stabilising and conditions challenging, as illustrated by the Congolese franc’s depreciation and the ongoing armed conflict in the country’s Eastern region.

Macroeconomic environment in Morocco

ECONOMIC RECOVERY ONGOING WITH INFLATIONARY PRESSURES ABATING

BANK OF AFRICA
BMCE GROUP

Morocco – growth recovery still robust although at a more moderate pace

2024 domestic economic growth forecasts

- Despite increased water scarcity, the Moroccan economy is expected to continue to grow at the rate of +3.2% in 2024, primarily underpinned by investment, healthy secondary and tertiary activity and a resilient export sector.
- Inflation, which hit a high of +6.6% in 2022, continues to gradually ease, reaching +6.1% in 2023 and a projected +2.4% in 2024, despite the anticipated gradual withdrawal of subsidies on subsidised goods. With inflation continuing to abate, Bank Al-Maghrib left its key interest rate unchanged at 3% on three consecutive occasions in 2023.
- The economic implications of the Al Haouz earthquake are likely to be limited due to the contributions (MAD 19.6 billion) to the Special Earthquake Relief Fund and the support of international partners, especially the IMF.

Foreign trade – sharp improvement in the trade balance

MAD billions	Jan-Dec 2023	Jan-Dec 2022	Change (%)
Merchandise imports	715.7	737.4	-2.9
Merchandise exports	429.3	428.6	+0.2
Trade balance	-286.4	-308.8	-7.3

Net FDI flows	10.2	21.8	-53.3
Foreign exchange reserves (ORA)	359.4	337.6	+6.4%

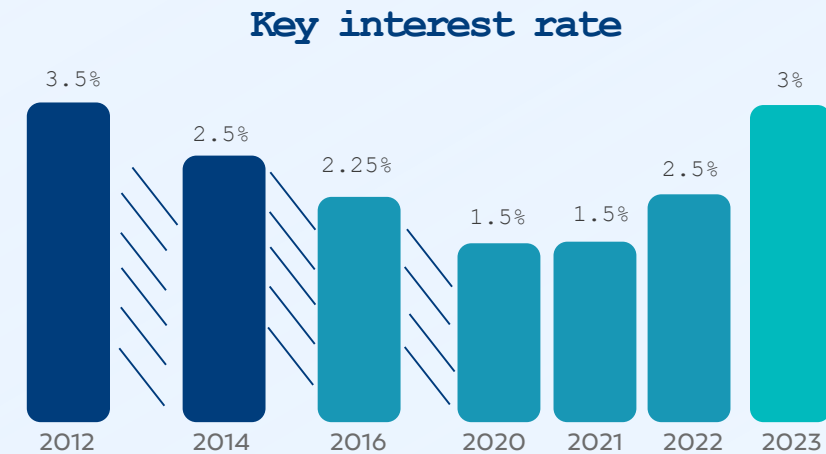

Source: Office des Changes and Bank Al-Maghrab

- ⦿ Morocco's trade deficit contracted by -7.3% in 2023, primarily due to a decline in imports (-2.9%) with exports broadly unchanged (+0.2%). As a result, the foreign trade coverage ratio improved to 60% versus 58.1% in 2022.
- ⦿ Export growth was largely driven by sales of automobiles (+27.4%) and electronics/electricity (+28.4%), despite a sharp decline in shipments of phosphates and derivatives (-34.1%). The drop in imports was primarily due to a decline in purchases of energy products (-20.4%) and semi-finished products (-10.5%).
- ⦿ Remittances from Moroccans living abroad rose by +4% to MAD 115.2 billion while tourism receipts grew by almost +12% to about MAD 105 billion. Foreign exchange reserves climbed to MAD 359.4 billion (+6.4%), equivalent to 5 months and 15 days of imports of goods and services.
